

Through the Atlantic Dialogues Emerging Leaders Program, the German Marshall Fund of the United States and the OCP Policy Center foster a unique network across generations, continents, and cultures, giving the next generation of leaders a place at the table.

The Atlantic Dialogues Emerging Leaders Program combines leadership development training, working sessions, and conversations with prominent thinkers. The emerging leaders are then invited to participate in the Atlantic Dialogues conference.

The Atlantic Dialogues is a platform where emerging leaders from the world of politics, business, and ideas engage with senior policymakers and business and media representatives. By encouraging a lively and informal exchange of views between rising leaders and today's decision-makers, the conference offers a strategic perspective on policy questions affecting the Atlantic Basin.

The 2015 Atlantic Dialogues Emerging Leaders Program will take place October 28 to November 1, 2015 in Marrakesh, Morocco. The program will precede and include The Atlantic Dialogues 2015. To apply, please complete the online application by July 31, 2015. This call for applications is open to emerging leaders between the ages of 23 and 35, from around the Atlantic Basin.

Please contact Madeleine Goerg at MGoerg@gmfus.org or Nisrine Ouazzani at Nisrine.Ouazzani@ocppc.ma with any questions.

Connect with rising stars of your generation. Shape the new Atlantic policy community and contribute to the transatlantic agenda. Hone your leadership skills. Expand your network and strength ties across the Atlantic. Challenge senior policy and business leaders in frank discussions throughout the weekend and learn through sharing experiences.

